NFTs have transformed ownership in digital art and music by using blockchain for unique authenticity, with sales soaring from $95 million in 2020 to $25 billion in 2021. Literature is now joining this NFT revolution, enabling authors to tokenize their works. Readers can own exclusive digital copies of literary pieces, extending NFT's impact beyond art and music. This fusion of literary digitization, blockchain, and NFTs promises a new era in literature, benefiting authors, readers, and the industry.
